Three recreation sites will open

The Granite City Park District will again conduct a summer recreation program.

The program, which will begin June 8 and run for seven weeks, will be for students entering the second through sixth grades.

The sites will be Parkview School, the Wilson Park ice skating rink and the Lincoln Place Community Center.

Several tournaments will be held at the centers. The winners from each center will meet at the end of the season to compete against children from the other centers. The program also will include handicrafts, a free swim each week, games and contests.

It will end with Junior Olympics at the Wilson Park ice rink.

Registration is in progress at the Wilson Park office. The cost for residents is $15 and, for non-residents, $20.

Band to perform

The Granite City Community Band will conclude its 1991-92 season with an outdoor concert on Sunday, June 7, at 3 p.m.

The concert will be held at Wilson Park near Delmar Avenue and 27th Street. Admission is free.

Director Roger Junk will conduct a program that includes favorite marches and light music.

Members of the band include amateur and professional musicians from Granite City and surrounding communities.

For more information about the concert or the band, persons may call Linda Green at 931-0445.

Cuts, not consolidation for Madison schools

Two teachers to be laid-off

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

The Madison School Board approved a package trimming more than $173,000 from the District 12 budget Wednesday night.

The board will now ask teachers and custodians to accept more than $133,000 in wage freezes for next year to keep the cash-strapped district afloat.

"If we do not get a freeze from other staff positions, we will have to watch our spending. We have no other cuts," District 12 Superintendent Dan Kostjenki said.

Bowing to pressure from residents in both Venice and Madison, the board balked on consolidating Blair and Harris elementary schools, which would have meant busing students at those schools.

"The board had a lot of discussion on consolidating, but realized the strong feeling of the public was against it," Kostjenki said. "They (the board) saw in April (meetings) that the people, almost to a person, was opposed to consolidating the grade schools."

Blair School, located at College Street and Meredocia Avenue, serves as the neighborhood elementary school for North Venice and West Madison students. Harris School, 7th Street and Alton Avenue, serves Central Madison students.

In the package approved in their regular meeting Wednesday night, the board plans to trim $26,392 through administrative and staff pay freezes. In addition, two non-tenure teachers will be laid off.

Rebecca Barnouski, an early childhood teacher for two years at Blair, and Paul Macios, a Madison High School English teacher for one year, are the teachers the board laid off.

The board plans to ask the teachers union and custodians union to accept more pay freezes for the 1992-93 fiscal year.

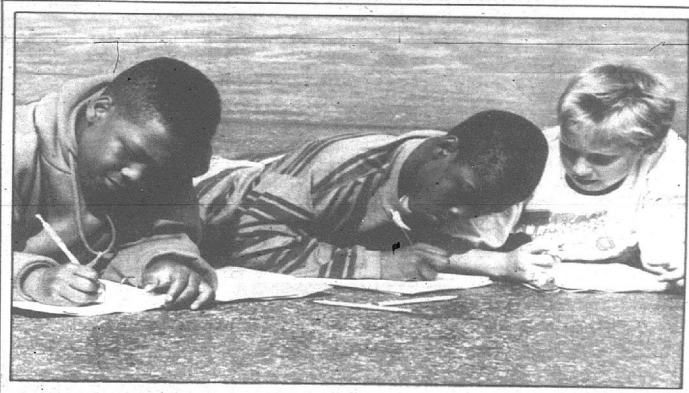

Kostjenki said the board will "wait and see" what the teachers union, which is asked to absorb $124,000 in freezes, says to the proposal.

Warehouse for Sears likely

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

It appears that a proposed $2.3 million warehouse project in Northgate Industrial Park will become a reality and be completed by the end of this year.

The City Council voted unanimously Tuesday to provide a $300,000 interest-free loan to the Lanter Companies Inc. to help purchase property for a warehouse in the industrial park, located on Illinois 3.

The warehouse will be occupied by Sears Logistical Centers, a distribution arm of the Sears & Roebuck Co., for at least five years.

According to the loan proposal, the terms of which Lanter has agreed to, the city will loan Lanter $300,000 in community development funds interest-free for 11 years. Lanter will repay $10,000 per year for 10 years, with the remaining $200,000 due in the 11th year.

The city has $60,000 on hand, and will borrow the remaining $240,000, interest-free, from Madison County. The county will then withhold $60,000 from the city's community development allocation for each of the next four years.

The facility must be completed by Dec. 31, when Sears' current lease in a building at 1226 Bissell St. in Venice expires.

The new 100,000-square-foot warehouse will be expandable to eight times that size, possibly in the next five years, to accommodate other tenants. Wayne Lanter, chairman and chief executive officer for Lanter Companies, said.

Aldermen praised city Economic Development Director Alan Ortals for negotiating the loan arrangement. They said the project should benefit the entire city rather than just a particular area.

Sewer cleaning service is resumed — for now

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Granite City's free residential sewer line cleaning service, which was temporarily eliminated last week, has resumed.

The service, which the city street department has provided for more than 20 years, was terminated by Street Superintendent Clayton "Jug" Harrison one week ago today. But, following a harsh chastising of Harrison by Mayor Von Dee Cruse Tuesday night, service resumed yesterday.

The City Council has debated the matter at each of its last five meetings. By a 7-6 vote Tuesday, it deferred action on final passage of an ordinance eliminating the service.

Some aldermen, including Street and Alley Committee Chairman Dan Partney, and Mayor Von Dee Cruse have been pushing to abolish the service.

But it was Harrison, who has favored retaining the service, who terminated it last week.

Cruse

"The mayor and the committee chairman want to get rid of the service. They have made their wishes known and I am trying to cooperate with them," Harrison said Tuesday.

The City Council voted 7-6 May 27 to place the ordinance abol-

Mistake breaks Venice mayor's door in bust

Venice police and Illinois State police executed a search warrant at an alleged "crack house" yesterday, but mistakenly raided the home of Mayor Tyrone Echols as well, police say.

Five officers from the Venice Police Department and 12 from the Illinois State Police tactical team executed a search warrant at an alleged "crack house" on Third Street in Venice at about 5:15 p.m. Wednesday, police said. Guns and large quantities of drugs and money were confiscated in the raid, police said.

Five men and one woman were arrested. Three were released yesterday, pending application for warrants today, police said. They declined to identify the house or the suspects until formal charges are filed.

Two teams executed the bust, police said — one for the front door and one for the rear.

But, they said, one team was led down the wrong alley and kicked in a door at Echols' home, nearby on Weaver Street.

"It was an honest mistake," a Venice officer said. He said the back-door team knew only that the house was blue in color.

"We're sorry it happened, and hope the mayor will accept our apology," the officer said. Echols could not be reached.

Penalty kick ends soccer team's season

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Hilary of frustration continued for the Granite City High School girls soccer team Thursday.

For the fourth time in five years, Collinsville defeated GCIS in the sectional finals and earned a trip to the state tournament.

To be held at Naperville this weekend, the final game was decided by penalty kicks.

"I don't know how high school girls cope with that kind of pressure and do so well," said Collinsville coach Bob Koehberg.

"To be able to do that against one of the best goalies in the state (Granite City junior Stephanie Kell) is amazing."

The top-seeded Lady Warriors, who finished 16-3-3, were in position to win seven times during the penalty kick shootout at Memorial Stadium, but the second-seeded Lady Kahoeks (17-6-1) incredibly survived each time. Collinsville finally won on the 39th PK after Granite City's Julie Goclan shot wide. Becky Thompson, an all-state selection, scored on the next kick to send Collinsville to state.

"The game itself was tremendous," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "I couldn't ask for any more out of our girls."

Freshman Holly Farnsworth scored for the Lady Warriors in the second quarter and senior Lauren Nelson scored for Collinsville in the fourth quarter as regulation play ended 1-1. Two 10-minute overtime periods were scoreless, forcing the penalty kick shootout.

3 charged in Madison drug raid

Three Madison area residents were charged with drug-related crimes Monday in warrants sought by the Metropolitan Enforcement Group of Southwestern Illinois.

Charles E. Powell, 46, of the 1600 block of Third Street was charged with permitting the unlawful use of a building.

MEGSI officials allege that Powell allowed his home to be used for the sale of cocaine May 15. Bond was set at $25,000.

Marcus Mason, 19, of the 1200 block of Calhoun Street, Venice, was charged with unlawful delivery of a controlled substance. MEGSI alleges that Mason sold less than one gram of cocaine in a May 15 incident. Bond was set at $45,000.

Nakia V. Latham of Madison was charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance with intent to deliver. MEGSI officials allege that Latham possessed less than one gram of cocaine May 22. Bond was set at $45,000.

All three charges are related to the execution of a search warrant at 1600 Third Street in Madison May 22. Madison police, Illinois State Police and MEGSI agents raided the house at about 4:55 p.m., the culmination of a three-month investigation.

2 charged with abuse of girls, 15

Two Granite City men were charged Monday with the sexual abuse of two 15-year-old girls, also from Granite City.

Frank L. Kodelya Jr., 29, and Joseph F. Kodelya, 30, both of the 1900 block of State Street, were each charged with aggravated criminal sexual abuse. Granite City police allege that the two had sexual intercourse with the girls in incidents between May 8 and May 16.

Both Frank and Joseph Kodelya were released after each posted $7,500 bail.

Aggravated abuse charged

Terry Scott Miles, 46, of the 2900 block of Victory Drive, Granite City, was charged with one count of aggravated criminal sexual abuse. Granite City police allege that he sexually abused a girl who was at least 13 but younger than 17 in a March 14 incident.

Granite City police conducted an investigation into the alleged abuse, in conjunction with the Illinois Department of Children and Family Services.

The alleged abuse occurred over a three-year period, police said.

Miles was released from the Madison County Jail after posting $7,500 cash bail.

Cemetery restoration under way

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

Local groups are combining their talents to recapture a bit of history and restore a 140-year-old cemetery near Granite City.

The Odd Fellows, Tri-City Shrine Club, Boy Scouts, DeMolays, Bass Fishermen Club and other interested area residents have been working in recent months on the restoration of the Odd Fellows Cemetery, also known as the "Old Spanish Graveyard," located on Schaefer Road near the new Wal-Mart store.

Little is known about the cemetery, researchers say, except that it was established by Six Mile Lodge 87 of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, whose lodge building was then located across Schaefer Road from the site in 1851.

More than 300 headstones have been buried in silt and debris over the years, and vandalism wreaked havoc on the area in 1980.

Work is now under way to restore those stones and recapture some of the history of the cemetery.

Restorers are compiling a list of names of those buried at the facility. Pictures have been taken of the headstones, and construction of an archway is planned for the cemetery area.

Restorers have determined from the headstones that a cholera epidemic plagued this area in the early 1850s and many infants were buried at the site. They also believe that a member of the infamous Jesse James gang was at one time buried there.

The last person to be interred at the cemetery apparently was buried in 1937.

Persons with further knowledge of the cemetery, or those interested in obtaining information about those buried there, are being urged to contact Orville Hommert at 451-6569, 931-4688 or 876-3961.

The Odd Fellows' present lodge building is located at 3906 Nameoki Road.

Battery is charged

William T. McCoy, 23, of the 2100 block of Monroe Street, was arrested May 18 and charged with domestic battery and aggravated battery.

The alleged victim, Angela D. Gallagher, 21, told police McCoy punched her, chased her into nearby Friendship Park, at the corner of 21st and Monroe streets, slammed her head into a tree and bit her on the face.

McCoy was initially charged with domestic battery, but the felony charge was filed May 20.

According to an information, Gallagher was pregnant at the time and McCoy knew it. He was being held Friday in the Madison County Jail in lieu of bond set at $50,000.

Administration Building to be short on security

A lack of security at the new Madison County Administration Building may be a concern, but Edwardsville police and the Sheriff's Department cannot spare officers for the building.

No security officers will be walking the halls of the office building. Any calls for police will be handled by the Edwardsville Police Department.

"There might be a problem over there," Sheriff Bob Church said last Thursday. "The deterrent factor is not there; the possibility of something happening is."

Church said he recently met with Edwardsville Police Director Bennett Dickmann and the two decided that officers patrolling city streets will be responsible for all calls in the building.

Dickmann said his department will answer all emergencies at county-owned property within Edwardsville except the Courthouse and County Jail, both of which are the sheriff's responsibility.

"We can't do any more than what we already do. We just don't have the personnel," Dickmann said, adding that any decision on increasing security will have to come from the County Board.

Board Chairman Nelson Hagnauer of Granite City said there has been some discussion about security in the new building, but no proposals.

Interest in security in the courthouse and adjacent administration building heightened after a recent shooting spree in a St. Louis County courtroom that claimed the life of one woman and injured five others, including a security officer and court bailiff.

The three sheriff's deputies who patrol the Madison County Courthouse are now keeping a closer eye on Family Court proceedings and potentially volatile criminal cases.

If an emergency does occur, "We will assist in any way we can," Church said.

Weaver Street worries continue

Council laments lack of progress

By Mike Chambers
Staff writer

Illegal drug transactions along Weaver Street, both at night and in the daytime, continue to worry Venice city officials.

"We've been talking about Weaver Street for the last three years (but) we haven't done anything about it," Alderman Victor Valentine told the City Council on Tuesday night.

"We have a problem — we've got a serious drug problem. I walked into a store and saw where a young man had left two police scanners sitting on the counter. This kid was a drug dealer."

"How are you going to beat it (drug dealing)?" Valentine cited tactics drug dealers have used to thwart local police.

Council members spent over an hour expressing their frustration about the city's inability to clean up such activities on Weaver Street. Much of the discussion involved questioning City Attorney Casper Nighohossian and James Bennett, Venice police chief, about city efforts.

"People are bringing me complaints. These people (standing on Weaver Street) are loitering," said Alderman Henry Fletcher, a resident of Weaver Street.

"The police tell them to move and they just go to the other corner. I call the police and they don't come. People won't even walk to the store at night. The police and the city should do something about this."

"I think the police chief should arrest these people and put them in jail," Fletcher said.

"If he looks at the arrest docks, he'll see that they (patrolmen) are arresting people. (But) without a positive ID (on a crime), the police can do nothing."

ing," Bennett said. Wednesday showed 45 arrests since May 1 in the Weaver Street area. Charges included drug, weapon, vagrancy and trespassing offenses.

Possible solutions to crime that the aldermen discussed Tuesday included closing off Weaver Street at night, parking police cars in the neighborhood as a crime prevention tactic, maintaining 24-hour patrols of the street, and even instituting curfews.

However, Nighohossian said the city doesn't have the financial resources for some options. He said the city is operating with an approximate $500,000 deficit.

Also, curfews and roadblocks in some instances would be illegal, the attorney said. Acting Mayor George Lewis said that, under city ordinances, unless home owners on Weaver Street post "no loitering" signs, the police can do little to correct the problem.

Complicating the issue, he said, many homes along the street are abandoned and the owners can't be located.

In other council action, aldermen approved a resolution to change the name of Weaver Street to Henry Baucum Avenue, after a Venice developer and businessman, in recognition of his outstanding community service.

The council also voted to purchase up to three used cars from the state for the Venice police force.

City Comptroller Roseanne Koelker said Wednesday the city would only purchase one 1986 Chevrolet Caprice, for $1,700, due to budget constraints. The auto is a former State Police squad car that has been driven more than 79,000 miles.

Marion Officer Jr. fined over embalming incident

By Christopher Knight
Correspondent

A funeral director and brother of the former East St. Louis mayor has been fined $5,000 and placed on probation for embalming and abandoning a child scheduled to be cremated.

State regulatory officials fined Marion Officer Jr. of East St. Louis, brother of former Mayor Carl Officer, for embalming a body and leaving it at a former funeral home, where it was found two years later.

A report released by the Illinois Department of Professional Regulation on Monday said the action is grounds for license suspension, but Officer's cooperation with the investigation caused the department to give a lesser penalty.

Officer could not be reached at Officer Funeral Home, 40 East St. Louis. Carl Officer declined comment.

The report says that Marion Officer received the remains of Deirdre Sattfield on Nov. 4, 1988, with the request for cremation.

The service was not performed and Sattfield's embalmed body was found Jan. 6, 1990, at the former site of Officer Funeral Home.

The report gave no reason for the abandonment and said Officer neither admitted nor denied the charges. He was ordered to turn in his funeral director and embalming license for one year.

Vice pandora, not panacea

When times get bad, vice flourishes. That was true in biblical times, and it's true today.

So it's natural that governments strapped by hard times are tempted to take advantage of the only business doing well. From Babylon to Egypt to Athens to Rome, rulers have grasped at government-controlled vice in a last-ditch effort to retain power. It never worked.

Now, facing hard times, the city of Madison is considering allowing a club to offer live adult — topless and bottomless — entertainment. Just for the sake of argument, let's forget the moral issues and look at the proposal.

The club, to be located at the site of Stages nightclub on Illinois 203, is in a district zoned for entertainment. It is not close to any homes, schools or churches. In fact, the location is so remote that being there is the only reason for going there.

The club's immediate plans are to spend more than $1 million to completely rehabilitate the facility. As much as possible, the club promised, the construction work will be done by local union contractors, creating local union jobs.

In all probability, the club's new format would earn lots of money, both for its owners and for Madison. The club has promised — a promise we have no reason to doubt — that it will create jobs and hire local people to fill them.

New jobs, new tax revenue. Madison needs both and needs both badly. But before our eyes glaze over in anticipation of good times to come, it would be wise to remember one of the basic facts of capitalism: There's no such thing as a free lunch.

In a capitalistic economy such as ours, money is worthless unless it is working. Each of us is expected to work, making something that others are willing to buy with the money they made making something we are willing to buy with the money we made making something they are willing to buy with and on and on and on.

If, instead of spending or investing money, someone hides it under a mattress, it means someone will buy one less of someone's something, that that someone will not buy someone else's something and so on until, ultimately, one person has a lumpy mattress and everyone else's everything is collecting dust.

Vice, in the form of strippers, doesn't create a permanent product. It doesn't create a demand for any other product. It does absolutely nothing except feed on itself and, as such, it is the economic equivalent of mattress-hiding.

Thus, the net economic boost that vice can give to a community — such as Madison — is exactly zero.

That argument over, let's bring back moral issues.

The one thing vice unquestionably creates is more vice. Both nude dancers and, with the possible exception of a bachelor party or two, patrons of establishments featuring nude dancers tend to be there because their lives have bottomed out. They have resorted to grasping at any available straw, possibly including the straws — such as drugs and prostitution — that are illegal.

People rotting at the bottom are, as a whole, much more likely to drag someone else down than to rise up themselves. And history — Babylon, Egypt, Athens and Rome — shows that if the rotten bottom is allowed to grow large enough, through either neglect or complicity, civilization collapses.

If Madison decides to permit topless and bottomless dancers, it will not mean the end of civilization as we know it. It may, even be the beginning of the end.

It will, however, be the beginning of something and, economically and morally, that something cannot possibly be good.

The two faces of Elvis

By Bill Beggs
Correspondent

Call it The King's last licks. The U.S. Postal Service issued a call for Americans to vote for the Elvis they'd like to see on a postage stamp.

Will he be the pelvis-thrusting, hip-grating, slender heartthrob of the "Love Me Tender" 1950s? Or the bejeweled aloof of the spangled white jumpsuit, the overweight Elvis of the "Viva Las Vegas" 1970s?

Results of the voting will be announced June 4 at Graceland, Elvis' mansion in Memphis, Tenn.

But there are several serious problems with making postage out of Elvis. First off, for your visage to be considered for a stamp, you must have been dead for at least 10 years.

And Elvis, who regularly threatened artists' executions should know, is not dead. Many reputable radio stations report sightings of the King around St. Louis, from hamburger stands to filling stations.

And, true believers can report sightings via the convenience of 900-area-code calling.

My theory is as good as anybody's:

Elvis got tired of all the attention. He couldn't get any peace and quiet, even behind the gates of Graceland. He had the dough to fake his death, the sense of humor to do it in the bathroom, and enough staff to fake burying him in the backyard like an old yella dog.

The King missed truck driving, which he was doing as a commoner the day he was discovered.

So as to not be seen, he rises about 3 a.m. and rolls north on Interstate 55 under cover of darkness to Memphis to Cairo, Ill., where he drives a route for Bunny Bread.

That's what he said.

OK, enough jokes about the King's whereabouts because, dead or alive, the government's made him into a revenue source.

But whether to vote for the "young" or the "old" Elvis is a moot point.

It's the same impersonator on both stamps, with different clothes and makeup. The features of both are sculpted, perfect — well, regal — like the matinee-idol of the '50s.

The bloated Elvis of 20 years later looks, well, as good as a dictator in a portrait he threatened artists' executions to get. If the older Elvis has a double chin, as evident in the last known photos of him, on the stamp it's discreetly obscured by graphics.

Uncle Sam would do something different for Elvis.

Smells evoke the strongest memories. Give us a choice of stickum flavors. Legend has it Elvis' favorite food was peanut-butter-and-banana sandwiches. That would be better than the icky glue on stamps today, and an appropriate flavor for the younger Elvis.

The glue on the back of the older Elvis should be jelly-doughnut flavored.

But the Postal Service says hundreds of millions of stamps aren't licked or stuck, they're collected. Last year, an agency spokeswoman said, collectors held onto more than $175 million in stamps.

That obscene amount would be plenty for the agency to pay. Way, way too much for real estate, like the building at 555 Washington Ave. in downtown St. Louis it paid several million dollars more than the appraised value of.

If that's the case, through the revenue collected via his stamp, the King of rock 'n' roll could leave yet another legacy, putting a strange new twist on this timeworn phrase: "Elvis has left the building."

What poor need most: hope, opportunity

(Comments by U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Illinois)

There is no single cause for the eruption of violence in Los Angeles.

Yes, the unbelievable jury decision in the Rodney King case was the match that lit the fire, but one match does not start a fire unless there is something ready to burn.

No reasonable person defends the lawlessness, the looting, the taking of innocent lives, but saying that is not enough.

We also must understand what prepared that area for the match, and recognize that we were fortunate that flames and violence did not light the landscape of much more of urban America.

By coincidence, two months earlier I scheduled a hearing about the problems of Latinos in the Hispanic neighborhoods of Chicago, and it happened the Monday after Los Angeles.

The great division in our society is not between black and white, Hispanic and Anglo, but between those who have hope and those who have given up. And we are not doing enough to give the poor in America hope and opportunity.

There is enough blame to pass around to everyone; attempts at purely partisan finger-pointing are not helpful.

Yes, the President's press secretary was way off-base when he blamed the flawed policy of the 1960s for the violence. What flawed policy is he talking about? Head Start? Aid to students? The civil rights bill? The Voting Rights Act?

Aid to welfare recipients is down 42 percent on the average since 1972. That doesn't help, but both political parties share some blame there.

But it is not just that. Instead of making welfare a temporary stop toward getting a job, we have too often failed — failed both the welfare recipients and the taxpayers.

Programs to help the poor too often have discouraged husband and wife from living together. We have talked about the problem, while it has worsened, but we have not done much.

Two people in the United States Senate who have contributed leadership on the welfare problem are Sen. Daniel Patrick Moynihan of New York and Sen. David Boren of Oklahoma. They both understand that continued drifting and ignoring the basic problems means a drift downward for our nation.

Sen. Moynihan has offered more constructive legislation — some of it now law — than any other member of Congress. His measures to encourage education and development of job skills have caused some inching ahead. Nothing dramatic, but helpful.

Sen. Boren has taken an idea of mine, to guarantee job opportunities to people out of work five weeks or longer, modified it and improved it, and our bill is now pending before the Senate.

The two things that can really give people a spark of hope are education and a job.

Not just for the bright high school graduate, but also for the high school dropout who had no encouragement at home, who faces a struggle.

Right now, I hear a great many good ideas proposed. But the key phrase is "right now." If we soon forget and continue to ignore the underclass in our society, those who to a large extent see no hope, no real future for themselves and their children, then there will be more tragic events.

People in other nations who saw on their TV sets what happened in the United States ask, "What is wrong with America?" We can take pride in the many positive things that happened in our nation, but we also have to honestly ask ourselves the same question. And another: "How can we do better?"

Then we must listen to one another, listen to those whom we may not ordinarily see or come in contact with.

Really listen.

Scouting willing to defend ideals

TO THE EDITOR:

The Boy Scouts. The name brings thoughts of hiking, camping, uniforms, discipline, campfires, corn bread, cold winter campouts, and a magazine called Boys Life.

In my all-too-brief experience with the Scouts, I attained the lofty designation of "Tenderfoot." Never known as the ambitious type, I figured that once I attained this rank I could then participate in all the outdoor fun and not worry about moving farther up the ladder.

The Boy Scouts are a unique organization. Their purpose is not just to teach young men but to actually build character.

They learn responsibility, discipline, various skills, and a true sense of one's self whereby they pledge to keep themselves "physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight."

Hardly a religious organization, they nevertheless recognize that boys have a spiritual side and that "morality" can be defined. With such high ideals, it is no wonder then that the Boy Scouts of America are under attack.

I heard on the news recently that a California public school district was no longer allow the Scouts to use their facilities.

The reason? Basically, because the Boy Scouts do not allow to their organization atheists and homosexuals.

This really comes as no surprise; after all, public schools have never allowed to teach morality for decades.

The next bit of news, however, concerned a salute to the Boy Scouts by the organization's American flag.

I suppose this was disturbing because blue jeans seem as American as apple pie.

But how has the BSA organization responded to this attack? Have they, like so many others, knuckled under to this arm-twisting persuasion? No. The standards remain the same.

Finally, finally, someone with some backbone!

So, I would like to offer a three-finger salute to the Boy Scouts of America. In a time when so many "role models" abandon their values to the garbage heap, it appears that some are brave enough to stand and, perhaps, stand alone.

But to the rest of us, we would be wise to observe the Boy Scout motto — "Be prepared." Yes, be prepared; it's only going to get worse.

Grateful for home repairs

TO THE EDITOR:

As recipients of the "Christmas in April" home renovation project, we wish to express our deep appreciation to Mr. Burl Schmeisser and all at the Realty companies, Illinois Power and everyone who so graciously donated their free time and lots of work, and the people who donated materials, paint and everything that was used.

We have made a lot of new friends who we will always remember for their work and also their kindness to us.

The School District was so gracious to come and work and build also.

Our greatest desires and prayers are for the project to continue for years to come, so other people can get help that is needed.

Please let anyone who wishes to see the work, inside and out, know that they are welcome to come anytime.

Thanks again.

Jobs not worth safety hazards

TO THE EDITOR:

Having been born, raised and educated here and still living in Granite City, I have always taken pride in this city.

But after I attended a public meeting regarding the Elicam project, this pride has taken quite a tumble, knowing what stand some of our city officials have taken on this proposed joint venture.

There must be some officials serving our city who were also born and raised here and are still living here, but apparently they have different regard for the welfare of our citizens. This is alarming.

The newspaper publications and other pertinent information should have been handled more thoroughly and efficiently, making the citizens more aware of what and how things were being done.

A few jobs are not worth putting 34,000 Granite Citizens' safety, welfare and health in jeopardy.

I am against bringing Elicam or any other hazardous operations into Granite City and I will keep this in mind at any future elections.

If the offer of Granite City is running over, there are the youths of our community who need a place to meet, instead of cluttering the streets. Or are there future plans for our youth resulting from what Granite City will be getting from this proposed joint venture?

Opposes delay in moving office

TO THE EDITOR:

In a recent article in St. Louis (May 12, 1992), it was stated that there is a delay in the move to the new Madison County Coroner's Office in Edwardsville.

This delay is caused by a lack of furniture for the new office.

Coroner Dallas Burke has allocated $2,750 for office supplies and $2,447 for supplies and other equipment in 1990 and 1991. I am concerned as to what this money went for.

If the coroner knew that the move was being made, she should have made arrangements to move (from the Alton office) into the new office as soon as possible.

The article also states that the county director of administration was unsure of why there was a delay, and the county would furnish the office as best it could until the furniture arrived.

The director of administration was under the impression that the coroner and her staff would move in on May 5.

It seems to me that, if the county is willing to temporarily furnish an office for the coroner, why isn't she there?

Don't run from the sun

By Jim Haverstick
Staff writer

Now that summer is almost upon us, people everywhere will head for the beaches, lakes, pools and the great outdoors for fun in the sun and return home burned to a crisp.

Most of these sun worshippers believe sunburn is an unavoidable part of outdoor fun.

But dermatologists disagree.

"There is no reason to get sunburned," said Belleville dermatologist Gary Vick. "There are so many ways to protect your skin."

Shade trees, umbrellas, clothing, hats and sunglasses are the most effective ways to protect human skin from the sun. But sunscreen is the second best solution.

And it is effective, Vick said.

He said a sunscreen with a sun protection factor of 15 is the best.

The number is a scale based on the amount of sun protection ingredients in the sunscreen. The scale ranges from 2 to 45.

Up to 15 is sufficient as a sunscreen; more than 15 acts as a sun block.

People frequently in the sun should look for a sunscreen without PABA (para-aminobenzoic acid), a chemical compound used in early sunscreens. It is effective in blocking out the sun but it can irritate the skin.

It is also good to avoid cosmetic brands of sunscreens because they may have perfumes that might cause allergic reaction or attract insects.

A good sunscreen should also be water resistant. This way the sunscreen will not wash away because of perspiration or wash off in the water.

When choosing a sun screen it is important to find one that protects against both ultraviolet A and B rays.

The UV-A rays are longer deeper penetrating rays and the UV-B rays are the ones that most damage the skin and may contribute to skin cancer, Vick said.

For Kitty Kittstein, manager of the Town and Country Pool in Collinsville, sunburn is a major problem.

For the last 18 summers she has spent almost all day every day in the sun. A sunscreen would be a lifesaver for her, but unfortunately sunscreens irritate her skin.

Kittstein uses a light coconut oil to protect her skin but otherwise she just burns and has to live with the discomfort.

"Though I can't use it, I strongly recommend to my lifeguards that they use sunscreen and sun glasses for protection," she said. "With all we know about skin cancer these days, it is the only wise thing to do."

Kittstein said she feels lucky that she has not experienced any skin ailments due to her prolonged exposure to the sun.

"I just knock on wood at this point," she said.

It is most important to protect the skin between 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. because these are the hours when the sun's burning rays are most intense, Vick said.

Exposure to the ultraviolet rays of the sun cause drying and premature wrinkling of the skin as well as cancerous and pre-cancerous skin conditions, dermatologists say.

"Sunscreen needs to be part of a lifestyle," Vick said. "It should not just be an occasionally thing."

Some of the products Vick recommends are Photoplex, UVAL and Presun. He said there are many effective products on the market but these three have all of the essential ingredients for a sunscreen and are reasonably priced.

For those people who get sunburned despite all of the sunscreens on the market, there are sun burn treatments available too.

Vick recommends an Aveeno oatmeal bath. "The oatmeal bath leaves tiny particles on the skin that have a cooling affect," he said.

He also recommends using a camphor-based lotion or a topical cream with one percent hydrocortisone to relieve the redness and irritation of the skin.

To relieve the pain of sun burn, cool wet clothes can be applied to the affected areas the same as in any skin burn. This also produces a cooling affect as the water in the cloth evaporates, he said.

Aspirin also is helpful in relieving pain.

Hand lotion, including those with aloe vera, can be used to moisturize the sunburned skin when it begins to dry and peel.

Aloe vera does not have magical healing powers for burns as many people believe, but it is an extremely effective moisturizer, Vick said.

No matter what products are used it will take about two weeks for a sunburn to heal, he said.

There are a multitude of effective sun screens available.

These treatments are among those available to treat sunburn.

YOUTH FOCUS: How do you know when someone is lying to you?

(Asked of students at Madison Middle School, Grigsby School and Venice School.)

Eric McDonald, Venice
"When someone is lying to you they're shaking and scared, and sometime you look them in their eyes they're scared, or laughing a lot."

Mijar Holmes, Madison
"You will know when a person is lying to you. Some people are very good at lying. When I know a person is lying to me they have a smirk or they will look the other way when they are talking."

Pietia Swope, Madison
"I can tell you when someone is lying to me by the expression on their face. When they tell you something and you know it's not true, you can hear it in their voice."

Shayla Wiley, Madison
"You know when someone is lying to you when they try to hold their laugh in when they are trying to tell you something and when they stutter."

Wilbur Simpson, Venice

"I can tell when someone is lying to me when they change what they tell me, plus I don't like liars."

Erica Barney, Madison
"You can tell when someone is lying when they can't look you in the eye and they laugh and smile a lot. And repeat themselves over and over again."

Damion Nelson, Venice
"Because when a person is lying they start getting mad. And they start looking innocent. When a person is lying they steal. And when a person is lying they always have an excuse for the lie."

Walt Greathouse, Grigsby
"Deciding whether someone is lying to you is very difficult because people are all so different. I would have to know a person very well before I could decide whether or not that person was lying. In the past, I've noticed that some people can not look you in the eye while lying. Others laugh or giggle. Some shuffle their feet or twist their hands. I think you'd have to know a person and their personality real well before you could determine if he's lying."

Amanda Colwell, Grigsby
"I can tell when someone is lying to me by...if they smile or be very sensitive when you ask them a question. When they are very jumpy. I can also tell if they have a high pitch squeaky whiny, denying voice."

Matt Riley, Grigsby
"I know when someone is lying to me by how they say it or how they express it through their body language. For example, when they smile while they are telling their story or if they exaggerate too much. Another way to tell is with eye contact because if they can't look at you while they are telling you their story, there is a pretty good chance they are stretching the truth. I think the best way to tell if a person is lying, from what I have listed, is by exaggerating too much. My sister has given me many years of practice in forming my opinion of this."

Chappelle Gray, Venice
"I know because sometimes they stutter or say uh or they can't look you in the face."

Mark Kary, Madison
"When the person does not look at you, you know they're lying."

Jamie Warren, Grigsby
"When people are lying to you, they won't look at your face, or directly into your eyes. Their eyes will dart, and they may act embarrassed and blush. Sometimes they talk fast, or make up unbelievable excuses to cover up their lies. Also, they try to change or avoid the situation altogether. Make sure to look for these signs the next time you think you're being lied to."

Matt Weissenborn, Grigsby
"When someone is lying to you, you can usually tell. Sometimes if a little kid has watched Pinocchio, after telling a lie, they feel their nose to see if it grew longer. Some people can't hold in a lie, with some people you can look straight into their eyes and tell if they are lying. There are some ways to find out if someone is lying to you."

Otis Armstrong, Venice

"I don't always know when someone is lying to me but, I can tell a little if someone is lying because I used to lie a lot. So now I'm not telling as many lies as I used to tell."

Registration for Venice baseball

A Little League baseball summer league will be conducted Saturday from noon to 2 p.m. for Venice boys and girls between the ages of 6-12, at the Venice Public Library.

The Citizens Youth Association, a community-based organization, and the Madison County Housing Authority are sponsoring the program.

"It will provide summer activities for the kids and also act as a social function to bring kids together in a positive environment," said Mike Terrell, president of the Youth Association.

Hot dogs, soft drinks and popcorn will be provided free, he said.

Terrell said the groups are also looking for coaches and volunteers.

Noeth

"People who know me consider me to be a warm, caring and honest person. I do not ever want this quality of integrity to be doubted."

"The people of Granite City have elected me for these same qualities and I will continue to apply them. I will not bow under pressure of accusations," Noeth said.

In response to Noeth's comments in the May 31 article, Walmesley said he did not request a salary increase from the board, and knows of no time when such an increase was considered.

"When I presented my request to resign... I told the Board of Education in my first words that my intent to resign had nothing to do with money and that my salary was not a factor," Walmesley said.

The only action taken by the board last night was on a motion to confirm that Walmesley did not ask for a salary increase in response to the Moline offer, did ishing the service on first reading. On May 28, Harrison told the street department to stop the service.

Cruse harshly criticized Harrison Tuesday night, saying Harrison should not have abolished the service until the ordinance became law. A majority vote for final passage of the ordinance, signing by the mayor, and publication in the newspaper are all required before an ordinance becomes law.

Cruse said he and aldermen had received telephone calls from residents needing the service last week. The callers said they had been told by street department employees the service was eliminated, and to call their aldermen or the mayor if they had a problem, Cruse said.

He said he thought perhaps Harrison mistook the first-read-teachers in the past. They have been good and fair negotiators... (and) they are aware of the circumstances the district is in."

Burt Ewing, field director for the Illinois Federation of Teachers (the District 12 teachers union) said he will offer the proposal to the 80 teachers for a vote within the month.

Ewing, who has been negotiating to avert lay-offs since April, said he was laid off (two instead of a projected six) so we both have a stake in this," Ewing said.

"I think they did a pretty good job of managing their funds. Negotiations thus far have resulted in the low number of people to be laid off (two instead of a projected six) so we both have a stake in this," Ewing said.

"(But) there is no pressure on the teachers to do anything. The teachers recognize what the district is faced with, he said. (But) we will continue to negotiate in the best interest of the teachers."

"These are last year's figures (that cuts are based on). We don't know what they need this year."

The district needed to trim approximately $250,000 from next year's budget to offset a month-long deferment of state aid to their $6 million operating budget. Kostenski said the beleaguered district has been steadily losing state funding since 1988.

He said declining aid put this district and 200 others in Illinois on a state with $300,000 for the financially troubled schools in 1988-90.

"There is a definite problem with the financing of schools in Community development funds have been used by the city in the recent past for neighborhood improvement projects.

Lanter had initially requested that the city arrange for an outright grant of $300,000 for the project, but called the loan terms "acceptable."

Orbals said an outright grant to Lanter would set an unwanted precedent and would "open up the request to other requests, if not outright demands, by other companies for similar assistance."

The loan is contingent on county approval of the project's eligibility for community development funds, Orbals said.

"When a superintendent has such a split, this is considered a text book case of not being long at the helm."

"I am not a 'yes' man to anyone and frankly I believe this is frustrating to some. I never believe in rubber-stamping what a superintendent does or says," Noeth said.

Walmesley said he had nothing to do with the allegations against Noeth and never identified Noeth to a reporter when asked about an investigation.

"Please note that I did not release Mr. Noeth's name to the press nor did I confirm that he was the individual involved," Walmesley said. "I confirmed, without naming anyone, that an alleged incident had taken place."

He said he has never had a personal vendetta against anyone, and "I am insulted" by Mr. Noeth's implication that "I have an ax to grind."

"When such matters are better discussed in executive session. He said the entire matter has "blackened the eye" of all concerned.

Illinois," he said. "So it's not just us."

School districts are mandated by the state to operate deficit-free. Kostenski said prior to 1989 the district was operating with a deficit. Since 1990, he said, they have avoided a deficit and also haven't borrowed money to keep the district going.

Should the teachers refuse to accept proposed pay freezes, Kostenski said the district will likely operate in a deficit.

By averting the need to consolidating the two elementary schools, the board appeased many citizens in both cities, who gathered prior to the meeting for an open forum on subject.

"They are not busing the little kids from North Venice. I am pleased. I think that's a wise decision," said the Rev. John Williams, an alderman from Venice.

"I want to thank the board for your decision. It took a lot of heart to do that. Thank you for your effort," Margaret Gehlin, a parent of a child in the district schools, told the board.

Under the plan, additional cuts will eliminate its part-time clerical position at the board office. Also, the building and grounds director, Eldin Rhodes, retiring this year, will not be replaced.

Middle school track and field was also eliminated, as well as $12,000 earmarked for teachers' and administrators' conventions. The transportation fund was also cut by more than $22,000.

Combined, if teachers and customers approve the proposals, Madison School District will have made $307,213 in reductions.

The bride and groom are both 1988 graduates of Granite City High School.

The bride is employed as a dental technician at Hi-Tec Dental Laboratory, Alton. The groom is employed as a fork truck operator at American Cold Inc. in Granite City.

Kimberly Stavelly and Jeffrey Carlisle

Stavelly-Carlisle

Kimberly J. Stavelly, daughter of Darris and Wanda Stavelly of Granite City, and Jeffrey T. Carlisle, son of Tom and Sue Carlisle of Festus, Mo., and of Roy and Connie Erickson of Rolling Meadows, Ill., have announced their engagement and forthcoming marriage.

The bride-to-be is a 1989 graduate of Granite City High School and a 1990 graduate of Patricia Stevens College in St. Louis. She is employed as assistant manager of the Rave Store at the St. Louis Centre.

Her fiancé is a 1986 graduate of Festus High School and is employed as the manager of the SuperStars Sports Store at the St. Louis Centre.

The couple is planning an Oct. 17, 1992, wedding at Grace Baptist Church in Granite City.

Valerie Barrs and Michael Mainridge

Barrs-Mainridge

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Barrs of O'Fallon are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Valerie, to Michael Mainridge, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mainridge of Madison.

The bride-to-be is a 1988 graduate of O'Fallon High School and is currently attending Belleville Area College, working toward a degree in music. She is employed at Boatmen's Bank in St. Louis as a check processor.

Her fiancé is a 1986 graduate of Madison High School and is employed as a customer service representative at Union Pacific Railroad. He is attending Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, working toward a master's degree in business administration.

A September wedding is being planned.

A Message From Don Fike...
President of RFMS, INC.

Four years ago I was able to announce that we would be building a new nursing home, Maryville Manor, here in Madison County. I mentioned that the Manor would be state-of-the-art and unlike any other home in the area. After several years of hard work and effort, we are able to open the facility this past December.

I also mentioned several years ago that, while Maryville Manor was being developed by RFMS, Inc., in Carleburg, Maryville Manor would serve Madison County area residents through the hiring of Madison County, the efforts of the folks in the local area. I could not have been more correct in my assessment! Maryville Manor has been an astounding success. Our occupancy is increasing. We have drawn great praise for the services we provide to our residents. This would not have been possible without the support of Mayor Rich Kinsky, the City Council, Ed Urban at the Bank of Edwardsville who financed the project, and so many, many others. As a City developer, it is certainly heartwarming to see this type of coming together of local people to make a project become a reality and big success.

I would like to encourage our readers to call Joann Newell, our Administrator, or Betty Kappler, our Director of Admissions, and arrange for a tour of our fine facility. We look forward to seeing you.

Don Fike
President of RFMS, Inc.

Purple haze continues

Kahoks again use PK magic to outlast GC

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

Wait 'til next year. In the end, that was about all the Lady Warrior soccer team could say — again — late Tuesday night at Memorial Stadium. For the fourth time in five years, the Collinsville Lady Kahoks ended Granite City's road to the state tournament one game short.

For the third time, the end came via penalty kicks — a horrible way to end a championship soccer game. But maybe it doesn't seem so horrible to the team that wins.

"People hadmouth the penalty kicks," said Collinsville coach Andy Kosberg. "But it's about the most exciting thing I know of. I guess I wouldn't be saying that if we had lost."

As with the 1988 and 1989 sectional finals, this game was tied 1-1 after regulation play and remained the same through two 10-minute sudden death overtimes.

But the night was still young. Each team converted three penalty kicks in the first round of five, and four in the second round. That brought it down to sudden death PKs. Each team converted on its first three tries.

Then Tammy Dutko was stopped by Collinsville goalie Christi Miller, giving the Lady Kahoks' Buffy Zajac a chance to win. But Granite City goalie Stephanie Kult — a hero to the end — was equal to the task.

Julie Goclan's try was wide to the left, then Becky Thompson finally ended the gut-wrenching suspense on the 30th penalty kick with a crisp shot to the lower right corner.

Lady Kahoks come through in the clutch

By Mark David Major
Correspondent

Tuesday's Granite City Sectional championship was a tension-filled and nerve-racking experience for players, coaches and fans alike. And all for one reason: Penalty kicks.

There seems to be no word or phrase to describe the pressure that falls upon a goalkeeper and five players during this sudden death situation. Perhaps Lady Kahoks senior tri-captain Lauren Nelson came to the closest description when she said, "Lord, have mercy!"

"We practice just like a game situation," said CHS coach Andy Kosberg. "We shoot something like four penalty kicks apiece. We try to make it as game-like as we can, usually after a long, hard practice."

But in an extended round of penalty kicks the pressure affects some people differently, no matter how much practice they've had.

"I wasn't nervous the first time around, but the second time was just too much for me and the pressure overtook me," said Kahoks senior Buffy Zajac, who scored in the first round but was denied by Lady Warrior goalkeeper Stephanie Kult in the sudden death round.

"It was easier the second time around for me," said senior Julie Johnson, who was stopped by Kult in the first round but scored in the sudden death round. "I knew I could do it."

"During the second shot, I was confident it was going in," said sophomore Jennifer Benson, who backed that up on the field.

The majority of the pressure during penalty kicks, however, falls on the shoulders of the goalkeeper. As good as Kult was, Collinsville goalie Christi Miller was just a bit better.

"I was nervous until I made the first save," she said. "We practiced all last week on this situation. I knew I had support and that the team was behind me. In the end, it's a team effort. I want to thank my defense and give them credit. Jennifer Herberts has done a terrific job as my sweeper. The defense got Miller into the penalty kick round and, after Miller watched Julie Goclan's shot sail wide to her right, the

Litany of frustration adds another verse

The Collinsville High School boys soccer program can recite almost 20 years worth of frustration when it comes to Granite City.

But the CHS girls program has nothing but good memories of post-season confrontations with the Lady Warriors. Last year, Springfield High School took care of Collinsville in the sectional semifinals before Shawn Odom's sudden-death goal sent Granite City to state.

Other than that, the Lady Warriors are 0 for 4 vs. their biggest rivals. Actually, Granite City has an overall winning record against Collinsville in regular-season games, but they would gladly trade wins in April or early May for one at this time of year.

The litany of frustration reads like this:

1968: In the first-ever girls state tournament, the two teams played at the old Football Bowl in Collinsville. Jamie Casillas scored late in the first half, but Cheryl Stacey tied it for Granite City with just 1:44 left in regulation time.

Each team made three penalty kicks in the first round of five, but the Lady Warriors missed a chance to win it when All-American Jennifer Debeve was stopped by CHS goalie Julie Corrie on the final shot. The Lady Kahoks took a 2-1 edge in the second round, then Missy Halbrooks beat goalie Addie Lenzi to clinch it.

Baker's girls scoreless so far in 'turkey shoots'

By Dave Whaley
Staff writer

The Collinsville Lady Kahoks advanced to the state soccer tournament by edging the Granite City Lady Warriors on penalty kicks after a scoreless overtime.

This has been a recording. It's a tape originally made in 1968 and replayed a year later. Unbelievably for Granite, that cassette was put on the reel again Tuesday night.

Gene Baker is still trying to find a way to erase it.

Baker's overall record against Collinsville in boys and girls soccer over the past 19 years is very good. And the Granite boys teams have eliminated the Kahoks in postseason play much more often than vice versa.

But in four girls sectional final games over the five years since the state tournament began, the state in purple has triumphed each time.

"Once you get to this point, I guess some people would call it a turkey shoot," said Baker after Collinsville had advanced to state again Tuesday.

Each team had shot 15 penalty kicks after a 1-1 regulation game and two scoreless 10-minute overtime periods. After two sets of five PKs had both ended tied, the two teams went to sudden death PKs.

Each team made its first three tries in that round and missed on the fourth. The end finally came when Granite City's Julie Goclan shot wide to the left and Collinsville all-stater Becky (See BAKER, Page 3B)

Curry class act for Granite City on and off field

By Mike Kelly
Staff writer

Larry Curry wrapped up his prep career in style.

The Granite City High School senior earned a second-place finish in the discus Saturday at the state track meet in Charleston. His toss of 162-10 left him 17 inches behind the winner, Darnell Carter of Bowlingbrook (164-3).

"It was a good way to go out," said Curry, who will play football at Northwestern University next season. "This was my last hurrah at state and I wanted to medal. A lot of good throwers were eliminated on Friday (in the preliminary round). But I survived."

Curry, ranked 41st in a class of 530 with a 4.8 grade point average on a 5.0 scale, plans on majoring in biology at Northwestern.

"It was my favorite subject in high school," he said. "Everything came pretty easy for me. I'd like to further my studies in that field."

Attending Northwestern will put more demands on his study habits.

"I'm confident I can adjust at that level," Curry said. "I won't slack off in the classroom. I never have. Academics have always been a high priority with me."

"The books will win out in the end."

So did Curry.

LeVault named to All-Academic team

Tammy LeVault of Granite City was recently named to the 1991-92 Northern Illinois Intercollegiate Conference All-Academic team.

LeVault, a member of Aurora University's volleyball team, is a biology major and owns a 3.45 grade point average. The NIIC All-Academic team is selected by faculty representatives from each of the six schools in the conference. Athletes must have attended their institution for at least one full year and have a 3.2 GPA or higher to be eligible.

LeVault was a 1991 team captain for the Spartans and was named the NIIC Player of the Year while helping AU post a 15-16 overall record (7-3 in league play). She was a four-year starter and letterwinner. She led the Spartans last fall with 524 kills (5.3 per game), 398 digs and 99 blocks.

Summer junior clinic at The Legacy again

The Legacy golf course is taking registration for the second annual junior clinic.

It's a six-week program which includes instruction and course etiquette. The clinic starts June 11 and runs through July 16. Boys and girls ages 10-14 are invited.

The Granite City Optimist Club will be holding the Junior World of Golf tournament at The Legacy on May 30 at 10 a.m. The tournament is open to boys and girls ages 10-17. For more information, call The Legacy at 931-4653.

Houston signs letter with Culver-Stockton

Josh Houston, a recent graduate of Granite City High School, has signed a letter of intent to play college soccer at Culver-Stockton College.

Houston scored six goals as a senior last fall for the Warrior soccer team which won a regional championship. He was a starting midfielder. Houston received a four-year academic and athletic scholarship at Culver-Stockton, an NAIA Division II team which competes in the Heart of America Athletic Conference. Culver-Stockton is located in Canton, Mo., not far from Hannibal.

British soccer camp at QCSA July 27-31

The Quad-Cities Soccer Association will again sponsor a British soccer camp this summer. The camp will be held at the QCSA complex on Illinois 30 on July 27-31. There will be sessions from 9 a.m. to noon and from 5:30-8:30 p.m. each day. The cost is $65, with a $5 discount for those registering before June 4. The deadline to sign up is July 12.

The camp is run by semipro English players and is for ages 5-16. Any team (at least 10 players) which registers will have its own coach. A hand-sewn ball and shirt is given out to each participant.

For more information, call Tom Cholewick at 931-4691.

BAC soccer camps here during summer

Belleville Area College is sponsoring two two-day soccer camps this summer at the Granite City

Campus, 4950 Maryville Road. The camps are open to boys and girls ages 8-18. The first camp will be from 9-11 a.m. on June 6, and from 1-3 p.m. on June 7. The cost is $30 per participant.

The second camp, which has longer hours for more intensive drills, will be from 9 a.m. to noon Aug. 8 and from 1-4 p.m. Aug. 9. The cost is $40 per camper.

Registration will be on a first-come, first-served basis. Participants at both camps will receive T-shirts at the end of camp.

Instruction will be given in fitness training with the ball, individual skill work, positional skills and tactics, and striker specialties. BAC head coach Larry Petri will serve as camp director and will be assisted by Edwardsville High School coach Mark Schwarzkopf. Both are from Granite City. Dutchmen players will serve as camp coaches.

Petri is in his 10th season at BAC and guided the Dutchmen to the Region XXIV championship last season. He also serves as a coach for the Illinois Olympic Development Program.

Baker soccer camp set for June 15-19

Gene Baker's annual summer soccer camp will be held June 15-19.

The camp is for boys and girls ages 7-18 and will be held at the GCHS soccer fields from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. each day. The cost of a ball and camp T-shirt for each participant. Lotto Sporting Goods will again sponsor the camp and provide the balls and shirts.

Camp instructors will include Scott Blason, a former Warrior All-stater who played at Western Illinois University and is now a member of the St. Louis Storm. For more information, call Baker at Granite City High School (451-5808) or at 314-355-2374.

GCHS football camp scheduled June 8-11

The annual Warrior Football Camp will be held June 8-11.

The camp is for students in grades 5-10 and will be held at the Granite City High School varsity practice field from 9:30 a.m. to noon each day. The cost of the camp is $20, which includes a camp T-shirt and refreshments. The camp is sponsored by new Warrior head football coach Don Harris and his staff.

The non-contact instructional camp is designed to improve knowledge and skills while maintaining a high level of fun. For more information, call Harris at 931-4938 or Larry Curry at 876-8044.

Cards coaches have clinic slated June 13 at Mitchell diamonds

The Mitchell Khoury League and the St. Louis Cardinals coaching staff will be holding an instructional camp for children from age 7 through high school seniors June 13.

The camp will be at the Mitchell ball diamonds. Expected instructors from the Cardinals are pitching coach Joe Coleman, hitting coach Don Baylor, outfield coach Dave Collins and infield coach Buckey Dent. Each camp participant will work in groups with all four coaches.

Registration began May 25 and will be limited. Fees will be $25 for Khoury League participants (accepted first), $25 for others and $30 for same-day registration.

The Cardinal coaches offer more than 50 years of major league experience. Each participant will receive a free baseball bat and a chance for a free session at Dent's clinic later in June.

For more information, call Larry Monroe at 797-1532.

Game

"We don't want to bore our fans," said Kosberg. "We have to give them the most excitement we can for the money. They have to pay to get into the sectional games, so we have to make it worth it."

Kosberg could afford the humor since the Lady Kahoks have maintained their post-season hex over the Lady Warriors.

"Granite City played a fantastic game," he said. "I know we had nowhere near the shots or the opportunities we have in most games. We had a lot more chances against St. Joseph's, and they just won the Missouri state title."

"The girls did all they could," said Granite City coach Gene Baker. "They played a tremendous game for 100 minutes, and it just came down to the PKs, which most people would call a turkey shoot. Collinsville matched us all the way. They will be a great representative for our area in the state tournament and I hope they win it all. They should."

Granite City took a 1-0 lead at 30:04 on freshman Holly Farnsworth's goal. Junior Beth Rapoff sent the ball into the middle and the Collinsville defense was caught up as Farnsworth got behind them. Miller got a piece of the shot, but it rolled in.

"We don't want to bore our fans. We have to give them the most excitement we can for the money."

— Andy Kosberg

Granite City coach

It looked like that goal would stand up. Thompson had Collinsville's best shot early in the fourth quarter, but it hit the crossbar after Kult had tipped it. Jennifer Herbster and Kim Logan were there, but couldn't corral the rebound.

But Lauren Nelson got the equalizer with just 13:53 left in regulation time. Jennifer Benson sent the ball diagonally into the penalty area and the Lady Warrior defense sat back for just a moment. Nelson tapped it past one and had a clear path to the goal. Her hard, low shot beat Kult to the left corner for a 1-1 tie.

Granite City poured the pressure on the rest of the fourth quarter. Rapoff had a couple of corner kicks, but the Lady Warriors were unable to get a good shot. Ann Logan just missed deflecting in Goclan's long free kick from the right sideline late in the first overtime.

That was it until the penalty kicks. "We were really tense before the game, then it seemed to ease up when we got on the field," said Kosberg. "They as we were putting kids into the second half, we were bonkers again. Experience helped us in the end. Our seniors were there in 1989 when we beat them in FKs."

Baker

Thompson beat goalie Stephanie Kult less to the right corner. "I've never had one go this far into penalty kicks," said Baker, who has coached close to 800 high school soccer games. "The game itself was as good a game as you will ever see. It was good, hard play all the way."

"Collinsville is tremendous. They're going to win the state tournament."

About the only consolation for the Lady Warriors is that virtually the entire team returns in 1993. There were only three seniors in the entire program this year.

Two-time all-stater Amanda Witter, Ginger Henson and injured goalkeeper Leslie Staveley are seniors, but the rest of the team will return intact as strong as ever next spring.

"We're going to be fine," said Baker. "We were probably less nervous (during penalty kicks) than we have been in a while. Most of our girls have such good grades that they didn't have to take finals, so they've had plenty of time the last few days to practice the penalty kicks."

At least Tuesday's game offered a slight twist from the 1988 and 1989 sectional finals, held in Collinsville and Alton, respectively. In both of those games, Granite City scored in the final minutes of regulation time for a 1-1 tie before Collinsville prevailed.

This time it was the Lady Warriors who took a 1-0 lead into the fourth quarter on freshman Holly Farnsworth's goal.

But Lady Kahoks senior Lauren Nelson, who was the big gun two years ago when Collinsville routed Granite City 3-0 in the sectional final, got the tying goal with 13:53 left in regulation time. She took a pass from Jennifer Benson and beat Kult with a low shot from in close.

"In behalf of our girls, that was the result of an enigmatic call on the sideline," said Baker. "They thought it was their ball, but it went the other way. Our girls kind of stood still for a moment, and during the half Collinsville worked the diagonal play and scored."

We coach them to just react to the calls and keep going, but the girls just don't have as much experience as the boys in that regard. We had four key calls, but that's not to stomp our grapes because Collinsville has a great team."

The Lady Kahoks will be content to play this tape over and over. Granite City will return to the gym and work on some new material.

1989: In Alton, Mindy Holcomb scored in the third quarter for the Lady Kahoks, but freshman Amanda Witter sent a pop fly into a swirling wind which got in behind Corrie with only 33 seconds left in regulation time.

In the first round of PKs, Debevc redeemed herself by scoring on the final shot to keep it even. In the second round, Corrie makes two saves and CHS has a 3-2 lead going into the final shot. It's Halbrooks again, this time beating goalie Jennifer Wortham for the clincher.

Collinsville was beaten in the state quarterfinals.

1990: This time the suspense ended much sooner at Kahok Stadium. Halbrooks was again the difference as she scored just six minutes into the game. Casillas scored two goals in the second half and the Lady Kahoks were in control from start to finish as they outshot the Lady Warriors 20-2 and won 3-0.

1992: At Memorial Stadium, the Lady Warriors seemed to have victory within their grasp countless times. They were 14 minutes away from a 1-0 win when Lauren Nelson tied it.

Then seven different times during penalty kicks Granite City was either one Collinsville miss or one successful conversion away from ending it right then and there. Incredibly, the Lady Kahoks survived each time. The Lady Warriors had 2-0 and 3-1 edges in the first round of five, and a 2-0 edge in the second round, but couldn't nail it down.

CHS had one chance to end it on the 28th kick after Granite City's Tammy Dutko had been stopped by Christi Miller. But Stephanie Kult responded with a save on Buffy Zajac's shot. Julie Goclan shot wide to give Becky Thompson the chance to win on the 30th PK.

She didn't miss. Collinsville plays Schaumburg in the quarterfinals Friday at noon in Naperville.

pressure shifted to senior tri-captain Becky Thompson.

Thompson calmly stepped up and buried the decisive shot.

"There was pressure, yeah, but I wasn't nervous," said Thompson. "It was nothing special and I knew it was in me."

"I have nothing but admiration for these girls," said Kosberg.

Sawyer Brown takes 'The Walk' into the '90s

By Alan Sculley
Correspondent

For a band known for its energetic brand of rocking country, it's ironic that a pivotal song in Sawyer Brown's career was a contemplative ballad about growing up and growing old called "The Walk."

The No. 1 single, which first appeared on the band's 1991 album "Buick" and was also included on the group's recently released CD "The Dirt Road," marked the band's return to the top of the charts after a late '80s slump.

But according to Sawyer Brown drummer Joe Smyth, "The Walk" wasn't as out of character as some might think.

"For all the upbeat and energetic and fun songs that we've always done, there's usually been one or two songs on every album that have been a little more introspective, kind of emotional ballads," he said.

"But probably 'The Walk' was the best song we've ever had as a song to give to radio," Smyth said. "It's kind of a personal thing, and happened to take off."

The recent resurgence came at a good time for Sawyer Brown, which went through major adjustments, after making a major impact in country in the early '80s. The group members are Smyth, singer/songwriter Mark Miller, keyboardist/songwriter Gregg Hubbard, bassist Jim Scholten and guitarist Duncan Cameron.

Formed in 1981, Sawyer Brown parlayed a 1983 appearance on the television show "Star Search" into a contract with Capitol Records. The group reeled off a string of hit singles from its first three albums, including "Bein' Bein' Bad," "Step That Step" and "Shakin'."

Though Sawyer Brown quickly became known for its singles and as a solid concert draw, album sales didn't satisfy Capitol. Hoping to boost the band to the next level in popularity, the label convinced the band members to change producers and record more songs from outside writers on its next two albums, "Somewhere In The Night" and "Wide Open."

"I think basically, the free reign we had with the earlier albums kind of came to a somewhat abrupt halt when the people who were then in power at Capitol Records, who have since all gone, they said you've had an opportunity to do it your way. Now how about you do it our way for a while?" Smyth said.

"And we did that for a couple of albums and let them have a very large part to play in the song selection, and we went with a new producer. And it took a little while for us to realize that perhaps our hearts were not in what was going on," Smyth said.

The band's fans obviously felt the same way, as both "Somewhere In The Night" and "Wide Open" failed to match the sales of Sawyer Brown's earlier albums.

"I think the final proof was fans coming up and saying, 'Well, we liked your new album, but it doesn't sound like you guys,' or 'We like your new album, but not as much as the last two,'" Smyth said.

The group returned to original producers Randy Scruggs and Mark Miller for the 1989 album, "The Boys Are Back," and showed signs of renewed chart life with the singles, "The Race Is On" and "Did It For Love."

Then came another bump in the comeback trail—the departure of original guitarist Bobby Randall, who left the band to host the television show "Be A Star."

"I think the main thing was he had gone really hard after this TV show he's doing and had invested a lot of time and effort into getting that off the ground and rolling," Smyth said of Randall's departure. "And when it came to fruition, it came down to a simple physical fact that he couldn't be in two places at once."

Sawyer Brown chose Cameron, formerly of the Amazing Rhythm Aces, to replace Randall. Though the band was set to begin its longest headlining tour ever when Randall left in early 1991, Cameron helped ease the transition.

"From his years working with the Muscle Shoals Rhythm Section and then before that with the Amazing Rhythm Aces—and you know (working with artists like) Glen Frey—he'd been out on some big tours," Smyth said. "So it wasn't like we had a greenhorn out there. He was used to being in front of people and that level of performance. He really attacked it."

In the months that have followed, Cameron has not only blended into the lineup, he's raised the level of the other band members' performances, Smyth said. The group, meanwhile, rediscovered the hit-making touch with "The Walk" and the current single, "Some Girls Do."

"It's been a real challenge for him to be fifth man to come in and kind of mold into what it is we do," Smyth said of Cameron. "But he brings who he is as a player to the table. I think that's one thing we've all been able to use, our creativity within the group. In our stage show, you're pretty much free to do whatever you want."

"He's a very strong singer and a very talented guitarist,"

'Alien 3' a smashing wrap-up to series

By Harry Hamm
Correspondent

In this season of sequels, "Alien 3" quietly stakes an early claim to being one of the best of the year.

Sigourney Weaver reprises her famous role of the determined, solitary Warrant Officer Ellen Ripley. Evidently, Ripley has been demoted. In the first two films, she was called Lt. Ripley. In "Alien 3," Ripley continues her running battle with science fiction's most ravenous creature of death. This time, the battle begins on a remote planet called Fiorina 161 in a distant solar system. The accident that inadvertently brings Ripley to the planet is detailed in a series of action shots during the opening credits.

After surviving the crash landing of her space vehicle, Ripley is taken to a hospital ward in an abandoned, subterranean mineral mine or mining operation on Fiorina 161. The former mine has been converted to a maximum security work-correctional facility inhabited by an all-male cadre of career criminals banished by polite society. Lice is such a problem in the underground penal colony that all residents have shaved their heads.

Initially, Ripley is unwelcome. The colony's superintendent, played by Brian Glover, considers her an explosive element among the prisoners, who all claim to have embraced religion, but who seem ready to attack her at the slightest opportunity. However, when the infamous alien emerges, Ripley allies with the men to fight off the intruder. In the interim, a surprising secret about Ripley comes to light. It is an inventive and interesting twist that makes for a dramatic, exciting and satisfying finale.

"Alien 3" is directed by first-time feature film director David Fincher, whose background is in major music videos. Fincher has crafted "Alien 3" as less sophisticated than its predecessors.

If you haven't seen the previous two "Alien" films, especially the second one, you may have a problem reconciling the story line in "Alien 3."

Charles S. Dutton is chilling as Dillon, the spiritual leader of the prisoners. Weaver has come full circle as Ripley and gives her best performance of the series. "Alien 3" begins well, struggles a little in its mid-section, but offers a smashing wrap-up.
